IMPACT OFFICER REPORT Lt Wesley Herman

Lt Herman reported Shoplifting in the area and the state has increased due to the criminal justice system and liability with loss prevention being reduced and charges are not being pressed. Employees are instructed not to pursue thieves to prevent risk of injuries and lawsuits by criminals. Clarification between Shoplifting and robbery involves force and fear. If perpetrator inflicts fear or force on a victim, it is considered a robbery. Shoplifting does not involve these similes.

II. Cendrinne DeMattei of DeMattei Real Estate spoke on the aspects of schools and their impact on the economy and home values. There are many factors that go into a home purchase and the Pros & Cons of home values near schools. High Scoring schools prompt more interest for families with children, thus increasing property values. Homeowners help support the economy by maintaining their properties and looking out for neighbors ie; neighborhood watch programs. Schools provide employment opportunities and support local business. Family needs drive the market although the market supports home buying near schools or further away, typically buyers without children.

We can all support our schools: Mentor students, volunteer at events, be room parent assist in classrooms, attend school board meetings, donate supplies, drop off gift cards for student incentives & speak at career day.

- ✓ Cendrinne also mentioned DeMattei will be hosting a community wide yard sale on Oct 7th details forthcoming.

III. Woodside TK-8 School Principal Beth Wahl along with VP Debra Johnston, Deanna Victor, Innovative School Design Team Lead, Amberlee Townsend, Asst Superintendent Elementary Education & Programs, AnnaLisa Storey, and Ilana Lang (Mission Avenue School) teachers and participants in the new program attended the meeting, as well as Al Fox who was invited to join the design team. Principal Wahl presented a thorough report on the Innovation process and the goals for moving forward. It was informative and encouraging to see and hear the enthusiasm this group has for their students and the future of this new learning technique. Immediate requests from students include more shade on campus and a drinking water refilling station. Hopefully next year will bring a community garden to the school.
